SC3 International Acquires Integrated Control Systems, Inc. in Phoenix, AZ Purchase Represents an Aligned Vision Toward Innovative Building Controls And Renewed Client Service Approach

Phoenix, AZ – November 4, 2014 – SC3 International today announced the acquisition of Integrated Control Systems, Inc. (ICSI), a building automation and energy management company, located in Phoenix, Arizona. ICSI specializes in the design, install and support of automated commercial building controls and supplies premier controls products from Automated Logic Corporation. With the backing of SC3 International, ICSI can now provide current and prospective clients with an extra level of assurance and stability as well as access to an expanded product line of HVAC equipment and components that can integrate into existing control systems further enhancing energy efficiencies and cost savings.

“This acquisition combines financial and organizational strength, engineering resources and the additional technology offerings of SC3 International with local market knowledge and high-level service commitments from ICSI,” says J. Kyle Bodhaine, Chief Operations Officer for SC3 International. “These two companies have a shared mission to excel in performance surpassing customer expectations in quality, responsiveness and value of product and services. As one company, we are poised for success to deliver on that promise.”

Integrated Control Systems, Inc. - AZ, has been in operation since 1996. Under the SC3 International Executive Management Team, ICSI has selected a new operations and sales team to implement a renewed company strategy focused on reaching the highest levels of customer engagement. ICSI control systems are designed to suit, improve business operations, lower maintenance and utility costs, increase security and raise the overall comfort and productivity in the lives of those working within a commercial office structure.
